Delivered in your mailbox weekly, the Digital Dispatch serves as an aggregator of key news stories in the technology and media space that may be of interest to you and your organization.

Netflix Loses 200K Subscribers In Q1, Forecasts Shedding Another 2M
The subscriber metrics were unexpected, badly missing Wall Street expectations and Netflix’s own guidance that projected adding 2.5 million paid users for the quarter.

Microsoft Is Reportedly Looking To Bring Ads To Free-To-Play Xbox Games
Sources familiar with the matter told Insider that one of the ways ads may show up in these games could be as digitally rendered billboards in car racing games.

A New Generation Of Streaming Analytics For A Connected World
According to recent studies, it's estimated there will be well over 24 billion IoT devices within the next four years, and with an abundance of these devices comes an abundance of data.

Deloitte Pumps $1 Billion Into Sustainability And Climate Practice
Deloitte’s sustainability team has a more than 20-year history of helping clients craft strategy, embed sustainability in operations, and meet tax, disclosure, and regulatory requirements.

ABOUT US
KS&R is a nationally recognized market research firm that provides clients with timely, fact-based insights and solutions through industry-centered expertise. For more information, please visit www.ksrinc.com.

Click here to connect.