

Are There Any Differences Among Industries?

Much of the current social conversation is sourced from the healthcare industry, with retail/e-commerce as a close second. The sentiment tends to be a drastic “call for help” in these industries, with several expressing how such companies are feeling the full effect of the “Great Resignation” movement and struggling to acquire new talent.

“An Aggressive Approach to the Great Resignation (which includes both resignations in favor of other jobs and complete departures from the workforce in the wake of COVID-19) continues to impact employers everywhere, and this is particularly the case in the healthcare sector. Healthcare workers have faced unprecedented challenges during the pandemic and historic levels of burnout, requiring employers to make special efforts to retain employees.”

--mondaq.com; Source: News

“To me, this is the most alarming chart from the Great Resignation: Skyrocketing quits in healthcare doctors, nurses, aides & more are burned out and we're still in a pandemic. Healthcare quit rate: March: 2.3% April 2.5% May 2.4% June 2.5% July 2.7% Aug 2.8% Sept 2.8% Oct 2.7% Nov: 3%.”

--@byHeatherLong; Source: Twitter

“While the “Great Resignation” was born out of the pandemic, the sentiments behind it have been brewing for years in retail. I do think it will have a long-run effect on certain industries that require in-person work and have tended to pay the lowest wages (retail and hospitality).”

--@ermidunno; Source: Tumblr; Reference: businessinsider.com

KS&R's Social Insight Exchange (SIX) provides businesses a view into unsolicited consumer and business opinions by capturing online conversations and opinions. For more information, please contact Kathleen McKnight.

Return To Thought Leadership >

Copyright © 2022 KS&R, Inc. All rights reserved.

Kathleen McKnight
Director

kmcknight@ksrinc.com
68.21.409.03c:52.7090

